

BIM = Baptist Indian Mission Church possibly located somewhere on this 160. Henry's land just east of Indian Mission.

HR: W80 = Henry Rowledge's west 80 of his allotment. Henry was Jess's full brother, and five years older than Jess. This tract exchanged for Arnold Woolworth's west 80.

HR: E80 = Henry Rowledge's east 80 of his allotment. House built here while Henry away at school, probably late 1890's or early 1900's. Rowledge family lived here. Did some cultivating and raised horses. Jess's father probably planted his 6 acres of cotton every year on this land. Sold for $5600 in 1916 when Henry got married and moved to Greenfield.

JMo: 160 = Jess's mother's 160 (allotment). Original Rowledge family house built somewhere on this land. Referred to by Jess as the "family homestead." Timber and grass land. Jess's father may have done some farming here. Horses raised. Leased to Lookabaugh, a white neighbor, probably after family moved to Henry's east 80, probably late 1890's. Lookabaugh family moved into the house where Rowledge's had lived. Lookabaugh family eventually gained control of much land in the area and started Lookabaugh Ranch.

SUMMARY OF DATES AND SOME EVENTS MENTIONED IN THIS INTERVIEW:

1884 Jess Rowledge born.

1892 C & A reservation opened to white settlement by homesteaders.

1893-1895 Jess's father raising horses for profit.

1896 Pony herding on large scale ceases as homesteads are fenced.

1900 Jess gets job as clerk with Indian Service. (Probably works during summers and goes to school winters.)

1904 Jess's father dies.

1908 Jess a junior or senior at Haskell Institute, Lawrence, Kansas.

1915 Jess gets job for Indian Bureau as Field Assistant, or Field Farmer.

1916 Jess sells his east 80. Jess at University of Chicago. Henry (Jess's brother) gets married and moved to Greenfield to his wife's place. Henry sells his east 80. Jess's mother moves to Canton to live with Jess's "Older Brother."

1917 Jess sells his west 80. Jess gets married and moved south to his wife's place.

1920 Jess finishes job as Field Assistant.

1921 Jess's mother died.