

And they had a ball up on the top. And they throwed this ball with sticks. They had two sticks. And they'd get this ball with these sticks. And throw it. And the one hit that ball up there. He made so many points. See.

(Uh-huh.)

That's the way they done. Well they played ball all day on Friday. Then they start dancing Friday night and Saturday night. They danced two nights. And they danced all day Saturday.

Molly: No we never did tell anything like that.

Frank: We went to a lot of them around here with the (not clear) boys.

Uncle David he had a bunch of boys. And they'd come by. They'd go to Dance.

And we'd go. They'd just build a big fire here. And then they'd start around that fire. One right behind the other. And a man and a woman. Then a man then a woman. These women they'd have. They said they was terrapin hollows. Tied on their legs. With gravel or something in it. And they'd stomp them. And made a racket with them things on.

(Yeah.)

And they'd sing. And go around in a dance. All night long.

(Hum-m-m.)

Frank: That's the way they done. (not clear).

(Yeah it was their form of religion.)

RAIN AND HIGH WATER

Molly: Like everything (not clear) . Nobody (not clear).

Frank: We moved up there. By that stomp ground in 1906. No, 1905. We stayed down in there until the fall of 1907. Then we moved on up the creek about three miles. And we lived there a while. Then we moved on up here close to Peggs. We come to this country too, out on Fourteen Mile Creek.

(Uh-huh.)

Where the dam is now.. There was a rain storm and that creek got up so high
