

happy, giving thanks and just a very grateful and thankful meeting they had the next night. And after that my brother recovered and he didn't have his leg amputated and of course we all know that Mr. Hummingbird helped our brother very much and they were very grateful to him. And I think they paid him--he didn't ask for money or anything but my parents were both so happy that they presented many gifts--that was our Indian way of showing our appreciation. And so he took the coals
