

(Yeah on Peter's Prairie.)

Yeah. New Southwest City.

(Yeah)

This friend, I was talking about is down there about near ways of Polson, there's a prairie, Polson crossroad there going north.

(Yeah)

Go north there and come to that creek.

(Uh-huh)

Come to--I don't know but I think a fella by name of Denim.

(Yeah, Denim.)

Yeah. Sam Denim.

(Uh-huh)

EARLY DAY SCHOOL AND MORE CEMETERIES

Down on across the creek, he had a son-in-law named John Silversmith.

(John Silversmith. And what schools did they have around that country, when you were young fella?)

Well they had, they call that Butler School house. Where I got my education.

(Uh-huh)

Then out there toward Peteres Prairie, call that Peters School house.

(Peters School, was that what they call Cowskin Prairie?)

No. Cowskin Prairie is on north of that.

(It's on north, on Honey Creek.)

It's down on that prairie, on where Grove is at.

(Yeah.)

Cowskin Prairie. On up there farther is a little old town called Cayuga.

(Was this on Honey Creek?)

No, it was on Elk River.
