

why I don't know..

(I guess you were then, you are kind of tall and--)

I guess I was, but although my head isn't flat in the back.

(That--just like any other race of people too, we had short people, tall people, medium size people, but more or less they strive to be tall and they were tall and upright--)

On your grandpa's side --on your father's side, you know they kinda short people and on my father's side, he was tall big man.

(Now these boards like we say. Could you kinda describe one now, like if you've made one--you've made one. Could you describe, tell you've made one and who for and everything and describe it.)

Well, you know I had the board made. That--I imagine nowadays they do that. Long time ago I don't know how they did that, they made it their selves, I guess. But since modern days, why you know you can have anything like that made. Had the board made.

(What year was this that you had this board made?)

How old is Carl?

(He's about 51.)

51.

(I imagine about 51 year ago.)

Yes. It's been about that long ago since I made---

(That was the first board you made?)

No. I made another one. I made two of 'em. Made one for Tony Maker's daddy.

What's his name? Alfred? I make one for him. I made two of 'em.

(But if you made this one for Carl fist, I think he was a little older than--)

Was first. Well, you asked me how many I've made.

(I mean one sometime ago--)
