

(Walker Cemetery. That's the one that's out west of here.)

Uh-huh. It's a nice cemetery. I don't know who the old boy is now. But he really takes care of it. They're going to have to widen it out though.

The part on the west end, it is about filled up.

(Yeah)

I told 'em well my folks is buried in the southwest corner. You go sixty foot south. Still down the hill there. They ought to fill that up, and start another part.

(Yeah)

(Not clear)

(Well that's your grandma Anson?)

Her aunts. Buried there. Brought here from all Alluwe. Was buried there.

She was the oldest one.

(Do you remember what her name is? Her aunt's name.)

Raccoon.

(Raccoon.)

Raccoon. Used to be some of the younger generation. Raccoons lived down around Alluwe. Ought to be some around somewhere.

(Yeah, somewhere.)

I don't know what ever become of them.

GRAIN ELEVATOR - FARMING WAS GOOD

(No. Do you remember Welch as a town in those early days?)

Why that's been a long while ago. One of them was Campbell. He run the elevator.

(Yeah)

The best elevator man we ever had.

(Well)
