

(Yeah.)

You know, they done a lot of dirty things.

(Yeah, some of 'em did. I--)

He was a pretty dirty old guy in his young days; but after he got old,-- that was Uncle George Years. He was a pretty rough guy, 'cause he run with a bunch of outlaws.

(Yeah.)

Them Barker boys, they's outlaws. They'd rob a few banks and do a lot of stealing.

(Yeah.)

Not the Barkers that's here today. It was the Barkers before this outfit. You's talking about George Barker.

(Yeah.)

George never done nothing like that, or his dad none of that. That family come after them. But I don't see how in the world people lived.

DOCTORS IN EARLY DAYS

(I don't.)

I just sure can't.

(But they did though.)

And there wasn't much sickness.

(No, very little sickness. Well, it's sure changed nowadays, because there's sickness everywhere you go now.)

There was Doctor Nolan.

(Yeah.)

He doctored my folks.

(Well.)

He doctored all over, well you know, from here to Tulsa and no telling where he did. He couldn't--he just an old quack.
