

It could tell a handsome story alright.

(Its over 150 years old anyway.)

You can tell it's old china.

(It certainly is.) (Static.)

(Here's a picture of the CornTassal family.)

Yeah. Him and his wife.

May: Used to be a log house right over there.

Frank: His old aunt, Bes$ie Buzzard is in there.

(Yeah.)

You see her?

(That must be her there.)

Let's see if I can tell. Yes.

May: See that old spinning wheel hanging on the wall?

(Yeah, there's a spinning wheel.)

Frank: I think this is Aunt Liza Buzzard.

(That looks like her from the picture that John had.)

Frank: That's the house that they lived in, right across over here, you know.

(Yes.)

You probably saw it, did you?

(Yes, and Corntassal, he had a beard, did he? A moustache?)

Yeah. A little.

May: He had a moustache.

(That's him then.)

Frank: Then he had a few chin whiskers.

(Then these two other full bloods here, they could be his boys.)

No. here's their name on the back. I forgot who they are, I know part