

(Well.)

You wouldn't think so, but they can, just lot of them can. Oh yeah. I expect you could squeeze your hand through there.

(I believe I could squeeze -- .)

I imagine you could. Lot of boys, I've had 'em here visiting, put there hand in there. I don't know where he got 'em or anything about it. He never did talk too much, I don't know. But he was some kind of, maybe he was some kind of deputy or something. Maybe sometime, I don't know what it is. He was old.

(Are these certainly of an age long gone.)

He served in the Civil War, you know, I don't know.

(Well, this Indian Tomahawk, here, that's authentic alright.)

That's a good one.

(It certainly is. It's one of the few I've seen. And black flint.)

What's black flint, I never saw a black flint one before, maybe you see, that's been whetted a lot. Look how its polished.

(It's been sharpened.)

Oh yeah. No telling what knocked this little corner off.

(No, a fella get his with that he sure got a headache. But its' been used, there's no question about it.)

Sure it has.

(Well, you know; there was Indians roaming all across this country long before they started settling Indians here. History records that there was all kinds of signs of em.)

Now that was found down around Springs Holler. (Referring to an old rifle.)

(Well, an old Buckshot, single ball, round ball, bullet model.)

What it is.

(36 caliber.)
