

(Yeah.)

Just which one was right, we don't know. But myself I've figured this out. Looking--by studying the Tower of Babylon. That's where I started from, reading. And I read on down about Pharoah, and about Cain. And Elijah prayed because he was cruel to the people, you know. Elijah prayed. That would let it rain for the space of three years and six months. And it did happen. And it seems that's where Pharoah started out. They--then I started from there. Unwritten history. I call--I call it unwritten history. It's the Indian followed the water line.

(Yeah.)

It was drying up. And they come across on the--might as well say, stepping stones. Part of it was dry. Part of it was stepping stones. Maybe just puddles of water.

(Yeah.)

BELIEVES GOD PROTECTED AND FED THEM AS THEY CAME TO AMERICA

And God furnished them food by having sea food for them to nibble on while they was coming across. That's my interpretation of the Indians coming over to this country. And they even owned Canada. The Indians landed in Canada. That all belonged to the Indians at that time.

(Yeah back down. Clear down South America.)

Yeah. Uh-huh.

(Yeah there was Indians all the length and breadth of the American continent.) Why sure. And course when Columbus discovered America--it was retold in our history Columbus discovered it. Now the universities claim that Columbus didn't discover it. But I don't know who they claim discovered it.

(Well I'd say that the Indians discovered it.)

That's what I claim myself. I claim the Indians discovered this. Because they was the first ones here.
