(Yeah. Wife and two babies. There's--)

I've seen the monument.

(Now they've moved that monument over to Polson, for his wife and two babies.)

They did?

(Yes. There's nothing over at Oldfield Bend now. It's all gone. And did you ever hear if Stand Watie was buried there to begin with, in Polson.)

Yeah, I heard mother say that he was.

(He was buried there to begin with?)

Uh-huh.

(Well, that's what I wanted to find out, 'cause I've been reading the history books and they're all mixed up.)

(static)

(Yes ma'am, I have--That don't tell us too much.)

No.

(The--)

She was some kin to old Coolee Bill. Did you ever hear of him?

(Yes ma'am. Yeah, she was.)

Did he marry a sister or something. Now I don't remember that. You I didn't pay much attention then when they was talking.

(Yes)

Let's see there ought to be some folks lives out there somewhere in that Oldfield Bend as they call it be the name of--I can't think of that name now. Back over (Informant is speaking too low for transcription)

Now they all live over in there somewhere, some of them. (static)

The main name of it is Polson.

MORE ABOUT CEMETERIES

(Yes ma'am. Now do you know anything about the Hilderbrand Cemetery.)
