

I wouldn't know.

(Yeah, the Seneca Indians.)

Well, I don't know. Well, there was a lot of them lived at Wyandotte. Wyandotte was the closest place, I think.

(Yeah)

Over north here.

(It must be in that country somewhere.)

Seneca (word not clear)

(Did you folks ever get to know any of the Senecas?)

We used to go over there at them stomp dances.

(Yeah)

Spicers and I don't know, I don't know too many of them.

(And who was the fellow they called Splitlog?)

Well, he was a Seneca Indian.

(Yeah)

Henry Splitlog.

(Yeah, Henry Splitlog)

Yeah, well that's down there by that old Buzzard Cemetery.

(Yeah)

They lived down in there. I don't know where she lives that Miss Chapman Fox.

(Chapman is that her name?)

Uh-huh. Do you remember her Katherine? (To a lady in background)

Lady: I see her Grove a lot of times.

Sarah: That's funny I seen her there and she got to talking. I thought she was a Cherokee Indian. I spoke to her in Indian and she spoke to me in Seneca. Boy that done got me.

(Well. Be kind of hard for the Senecas to understand the Cherokee. Their language is so different.)
