now is the time for all good men to join

Can you read the above? Then you are eligible for life membership in the University of Oklahoma Association. For sixty dollars, payable five dollars a quarter, you will receive The Sooner Magazine as long as you live and you will be relieved of other membership dues.

The Sooner Magazine brings the University of Oklahoma to every graduate. It is a necessity if you want to keep up with the progress of your Alma Mater.

For instance, the campus map in this issue of the magazine has never before been published; it alone is worth the price of an annual membership in the association. Other features are constantly being presented to make the magazine interesting.

The Sooner Magazine has enlisted the interest of a wide section of Soonerland. Burton Rascoe, former editor of the Bookman and now editor of Morrow’s Almanac, Muna Lee, famous poet, director of public relations of the University of Porto Rico, and other noted Oklahomans, will have articles in approaching issues.
