For U.S. Senator Ross Rizley

Although a candidate for election on the Republican ticket, I invite the support of all people of this state who are in accord with our representative form of government, and who respect the sovereign rights of the states as distinguished from the delegated powers of the federal government. On these fundamentals, there should be no division among Americans whether they be Democrats, Republicans, Dixiecrats, or independent voters. If elected, I will use my best efforts as your United States Senator to revive and maintain our constitutional form of government and to rollback the tide of Socialism, Communism, centralization, and nationalism that has been slowly engulfing us in this country during the past 16 years. (From Ross Rizley’s opening campaign address in Enid, Sept. 11, 1948).
