along the BOAC Jet Bridge to the Orient

1740 MERCANTILE DALLAS BLDG.

Dazzling is the view across the Pacific Magnificent and quite attainable. Just board a Rolls-Royce 707 jet in San Francisco and travel westward through Honolulu and Tokyo—all the way to the British Crown Colony of Hong Kong. There, if you wish, you can fly on to Bangkok, and Singapore. Or stop-over anywhere enroute at no extra airfare.

BOAC Cabin service, transpacific style, is an impeccable blend of British and Orientalsolicitude. Your stewardesses: Chinese, Japanese, British. You arrive gloriously receptive to themessage of the Orient! The brilliantsights along the BOAC Jetbridge are priced as low as $900, San Francisco-Hong Kong, Economy Class round-trip; from Honolulu, $774. For surprisingly little more, you can come home the other way, around the world. In one full swoop, or again with stop-over privileges along the way. Clear the way with your Travel Agent. Today—and beat the crowd!
