The view is breathtaking, but the occupants of the coveted seats in the pressbox usually are too busy to notice. Sooner Magazine steals a look at this sanctum sanctorum of the sports world in “Game Day,” an examination of the support troops who make a folk festival out of football. See Page 4.