“CASTING HIS OWN SHADOW” — Having a famous father might pose problems for some men but not OU Professor Emeritus Melvin B. Tolson Jr. who dealt with that issue by becoming a revered figure in his own right. Here Tolson Jr., greets his friend and colleague George Henderson at the dedication of the OU cultural center for black student organizations and activities, which bears both their names. Article on Page 9.