ON THE COVER
Merely assembling OMNH treasures for this photo raised Vicki Byre's anxiety level. As coordinator for the move to the new Sam Noble museum facility, Byre has strict standards for handling each of the five million items in her care. Story on Page 2.

CONTENTS

2 PACKING UP, MOVING OUT
The multi-year project of skillfully packing and transferring five million priceless items to the new Sam Noble Oklahoma Museum of Natural History requires steady nerves, strong backs and a mountain of bubble wrap.

9 LIVING THE POSITIVE LIFE
Charles and Lynn Schusterman find no downside in lives based on the responsibility that comes with success—responsibility to their family, their employees, their city and state, members of their faith, those less fortunate.

13 IN DISTINGUISHED COMPANY
For more than 50 years, the University has reserved a special place at the table for faculty attaining the coveted George Lynn Cross Research, David Ross Boyd and Regents' Professorships—a Sooner Magazine biennial report.

19 AND THE ENVELOPE, PLEASE...
Meteorologist Kelvin Droegemeier and his intrepid band of storm predictors—who in a single season have captured the scientific equivalents of an Oscar and a Golden Globe—are caught in a whirlwind of national prize recognition.

24 DID DAVID ROSS BOYD PLANT THAT TREE?
A couple of enterprising botany professors are putting an academic spin on a renewed dedication to the University of Oklahoma's tree-planting roots—as personified by the Johnny Appleseed tendencies of its pioneer first president.
