4 FOREIGN POLICY IN THE 21ST CENTURY
Why come to the campus of the University of Oklahoma to discuss the future of U.S. foreign policy? Where else could these insiders have breakfast with Sam Nunn, lunch with Jeane Kirkpatrick and dinner with Henry Kissinger?

19 MR. PERKINS COMES TO NORMAN
Already having presented his ambassadorial credentials to the United Nations and the governments of Liberia, South Africa and Australia, a distinguished career diplomat came to OU to launch an impressive new program.

22 FORE!
To many golfers, the Perry Maxwell design of the old University Golf Course was sacred. They need not have worried. Robert Cupp’s renovation has kept the best of Maxwell while adding his own brand of challenge to every hole.

26 THE LEGEND OF CHARLIE COE
To say that he was the greatest golfer in OU history is not enough. Coe was one of the greatest amateurs of all time and—if he had not put family before fame—a blue-chip prospect for a professional tour heading into its golden age.

29 BREAKING THE BARRIERS THROUGH BIOCHEMISTRY
OU research scientists Roe and Klebba are leading teams of post-doctoral, graduate and undergraduate students to promising discoveries in the treatment of pancreatic cancer and the destruction of disease-causing bacteria.

ON THE COVER
If the faces on this Sooner Magazine cover seem familiar, it is because they belong to some of the most photographed and oft-quoted experts in the foreign policy field—on campus this fall to talk to students, faculty, the public and each other. See Page 4.
