Thurman S. Hurst, '12law, was sworn in January 11 as a new justice of the State Supreme court.

A tribute to Paul A. Walker, '12law, member of the Federal Communications Commission, was published recently in The Daily Ardmoreite. It followed:

"Determination to make the most of his opportunities raised Paul A. Walker to the eminent position he holds in public life. Paul Walker had the usual struggles of a small town youth and in 1912 he was located in a permanent job as justice of the peace at Shawnee. He wanted to become a lawyer, and the next year found him enrolled as a student in the University of Oklahoma pursuing his studies. While a student at the University be met Miss Myra Evalyn Williams, teacher of foreign languages, and they were married in 1914 at the First Methodist church, Durant.

"When his law course was finished he went as an employee to the State Corporation Commission and finally was made chairman of the board. It was while serving in that capacity that the Interstate Commerce Commission said of him that he was the most efficient man on tariff rates that ever appeared before the commission. From the Corporation Commission of Oklahoma he was drafted by the Federal Communications Commission and made chairman of the telephone and telegraph division. In that capacity he set out to cause a reduction in A.T.&T. rates of $15,000,000. He failed of a full measure of his goal, but succeeded in having rates reduced $12,000,000 with which he had to be content, for the moment."

"When it was decided to elect national honorary members and it fell to the council to designate the first national speech leader to be so honored, the unanimous choice was New, the game's long-time friend, Ted Bead, of the University of Oklahoma.

"Ted has been at every one of our national speech tournaments and since the origin of these classics his advice and assistance have been of inestimable value to the league. His vast field of experience in high school forensics secured in his capacity as director of the University of Oklahoma's extension service in general education and as chairman for many years of the National University Extension association committee on debate has given him a rich background from which to draw suggestions on tournament management and league administration which have always been distinctly helpful. He is the originator of the coaches' discussion contest which now is a regular feature of our national tournaments.

"In 1932 he was the tournament banquet speaker; in 1935, he served as one of the judges of the championship debate. Beard is directly responsible for the first two demonstration radio debates for the benefit of high school debaters and has been extremely helpful in arranging for the annual broadcast of the Forensic League championship debats. He is one of the men whose services have done most to develop the high school forensic program in America."

DEATHS

Former gridman dies

One of the University’s early-day football stars was taken by death when James Monnett, '06 pharmacist, died in December at Cushing where he had operated a drug store until a few years ago. He had been in ill health for several years.

Mr. Monnett played on the Sooner football teams of 1903-06, and was captain in 1906. Weighing more than two hundred pounds, he won fame as a stellar tackle. During his year as captain, he led the Sooner to a 18-12 victory over the Haskell Indians, which was considered a major upset as the Indians in that year had one of their best teams in history.

Pharmacist passes away

Pneumonia caused the death of Ralph G. Smith, '13pharm, at his home in Apache, Okla., during December.

Mr. Smith, a pioneer resident of Apache, owned the Smith Pharmacy in partnership with a brother, W. E. Smith. Survivors include his wife, one son, and three daughters.

Mr. Smith served as a captain in the United States army during the World war.

Death takes former regent

Mrs. Mary Schwoercke, first woman member of the University Board of Regents, died in January at Oklahoma City after a four-months illness. She had been active for many years in civic and political affairs in Oklahoma City.

She was a member of the '89er Historical association, president of the children’s joint case committee of the Community Fund and treasurer of the Children’s Welfare league of the fund, and had previously served with many other civic groups.

Survivors include her husband, J. N. Schwoercke, employee of the railroad rate adjustment of the State Corporation Commission. A nephew, Charles W. Schwoercke, '31law, is an Oklahoma county Representative in the State Legislature.

Miss Irene Obrieter, '23as, died in December at her home in Denver, Colo., after a brief illness. She had lived in Oklahoma City until six years ago when she moved to Denver with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Claude Obrieter.

L. M. Logan, of Tahlequah, father of three widely known University graduates, died in December at his home in Tahlequah, Okla. Mr. Logan had been engaged in educational work in Oklahoma for nearly half a century before his retirement in 1930. He was the father of Dr. Leonard Logan, '14as, Norman; David M. Logan, '16as, Okmulgee, and Dr. Clifford K. Logan, '17as, 18as, 20med, physician at Hominy.

Mrs. Vesta Mae Dick, '31nurse, died in December of pneumonia in Polyclinic Hospital at Oklahoma City. She was 28 years old and was considered a specialist in nursing pneumonia cases.
Frank Pearson, 24 as, Oklahoma City, died December 28 as a result of injuries received in an accident. He was riding a bicycle which collided with a bus at an Oklahoma City street intersection. He was 44 years old.

'G' for gigolo

"The classified ad column of the Oklahoma Daily carried this one: "Girls needing men escorts—call Social Service Bureau, Phone 2209. All contracts strictly confidential."

Investigation revealed the offer was bona fide. Co-eds found they could step to the phone and get a gigolo of almost any type. The co-ed was required to pay 50 cents for the first two hours' entertainment, and 25 cents for each hour additional. If she wanted to go to a show or drink a couple of cokes, there was a 50-cents extra for the man's time and footing the bill as well, there is no reasonable service bureau for criticizing such an arrangement."

Traffic problem

Finding automobile traffic extremely heavy where Boyd street intersects Elm avenue, University boulevard and Asp street, Norman city officials have considered installing signal lights on those busy corners.

The Asp-Boyd intersection was found the busiest, a traffic count showing an average of 719 cars passing in an hour in the morning, and an average of 490 an hour in the afternoon. In one day, 7,140 cars passed this intersection which is known to many generations of students as the Varsity corner.

Game of bluff

Hitler and Mussolini are extremely bold in their foreign policies because they are convinced that France and Britain are determined not to go to war now, Cortezen A. M. Ewing, director of the school of citizenship and public affairs, told Norman Lions club members recently.

Thinking people in Europe believe that the capitalistic system could not survive another major war, he declared. In preference to chaos, they suffer diplomatic insults.

Armory request renewed

Request for federal funds to build new armories at state universities was renewed at a recent meeting of the National Association of State University Presidents. The proposal was submitted by Dr. W. B. Bizzell, president of the University, as chairman of the military affairs committee of the association. The association also the Land Grant College association first requested the funds three years ago after a survey of armory needs. The funds would be apportioned according to enrollment, and the University of Oklahoma probably would receive about $500,000. Dr. Bizzell was elected vice-president of the association at its final session.

Bob Vollmer, editor of the Oklahoma Daily, criticized the proposal strongly, attacking it as "militaristic." He urged students to write to their congressmen and senators and ask them to oppose the program.

Adj. Gen. Charles F. Barrett, commander of the Oklahoma National Guard, answered the criticism with a statement that student opposition was "moronic."

"They'd all have to go in case of war anyway. It is just a question of whether they want to go as cannon fodder or trained to render the best service for their country at the maximum safety and service to themselves. There is probably no one in the state more opposed to militarism than I. But this is not a militaristic program in any sense of the word."
