THE FIRST ALUMNUS COMMEMCENMENT SPEAKER

and an adopted Oklahoman was on his way to stardom in the Newspaper World.

He remained as editor of the Cleveland Press for about two years, and then a new position was created for him. He was made Editor-in-Chief with the responsibility of directing all of the papers in what was known as the Southwestern Group, making his headquarters at Houston, Texas, and looking after the production of the papers in Oklahoma City, Fort Worth, Houston, Memphis, Birmingham, El Paso and Albuquerque.

Two years of steady application to this assignment demonstrated to Bob Scripps and Roy Howard, the latter having come into the firm as a partner, that Mr Parker was the man to direct the editorial destinies of the entire group. He was transferred to Washington, and put in charge of the editorial end of the entire Scripps-Howard group. He later moved to Cleveland for several years, and directed the work from there. In 1929, following the purchase of the New York Telegram, and the Pittsburgh Press, he was transferred to New York, and made Editor-in-Chief of the organization and a partner in the concern. With the active editorial direction of twenty-five aggressive American daily papers, Mr Parker now holds what is considered the biggest newspaper job in America.

His intense interest in Oklahoma has never abated, and he and his family have always considered it their home. One of the most striking things he has ever done in an editorial way was during the Walton war, when it looked like the streets of Oklahoma City would run red with blood, and that grim tragedy would follow in the wake of impassioned politics. The then editor of the Oklahoma News, Morrison Toomer, was fatally ill in an Oklahoma City hospital. Mr Parker was residing in Houston, giving his attention to the direction of the S. W. Group. With the emergency arising for clear headed responsible direction Mr Parker rushed back to his old desk on the Oklahoma News. He ended the tense situation with a striking and dramatic editorial, which covered the entire front page of his paper under the caption "We want neither Klan nor King," setting out on one hand the excesses of Walton's military rule, and on the other the dangers that might come from the Hooded Empire, charting the straight course for the clear-thinking man to follow, and raising the flag under which the middle citizen could enlist.

The tense situation collapsed with the publication of this editorial, and it was perhaps more due to Mr Parker than any other individual that the threatened disasters of this dangerous situation never occurred.

Mr Parker visits Oklahoma at every opportunity, always returning, if possible, for the annual Homecoming game on the university campus. He prefers to spend his vacations at the famous T-Bone Ranch on the edge of the Salt Plains near Cherokee, Oklahoma, and when he comes back to make the university address twenty-four years after his graduation, it will be as the Sooner school's most distinguished alumnus.

A GREAT JURIST
to us in the field of teaching and education? I take it there are two types of teachers as there are two classes of judges—one that helps to mould thought and the other that is content to reflect or tries to reflect the thought generally prevailing at the moment.

Justice Holmes once said: "No doubt every calling is great when greatly pursued." Of his own he wrote: "Law is the business to which my life is devoted, and I should show less than devotion if I did not do what in me lies to improve it, and when I perceive what seems to me the ideal of its future, if I hesitated to point it out, and to press toward it with all my heart."

From various sources I have gathered a few gems of thought, pearls of wisdom, that reveal profound truths and were exemplified in his life. They grow in beauty and power as their meaning is sensed. The first one might well have been written for the teaching profession. He said:

"The main part of intellectual edu-
