Development Fund
Names Class Agents

In an attempt to bring all alumni into the Development Fund program, each class will be represented by agent.

Say Classmate can you spare a dime?
There'll never be a better time
To advance the cause of knowledge
And help someone through college,
So Classmate can't you spare a dime?

Say Classmate do you have a dollar?
Why not pass the buck along to some poor scholar?
It isn't very funny
To have brains but not much money,
So Classmate can't you give a dollar?

Say Classmate can you spare a fin?
O.U. has spread her funds a little thin,
She has many a pressing need
To which we should give heed, So Classmate won't you please kick in?

Say Classmate send a hundred dollar bill,
It will make you feel that you are a Sooner still,
Help some wizard find the dope
To build our first Atomoscope, So Classmate put that Century in our till.

Say Classmate can you spend a grand?
There's important research projects being planned,
And you can have a share
If you'll send what you can spare,
So Classmate won't send a grand?

Say Classmates can't we each and all Contribute something, be it large or small,
Much good will surely come
No matter what the sum,
So come on Classmates let's get on the ball!

This poem, addressed to the Class of '29 and written by Eleanor Tracy, '29ba, helped initiate a new program for the Alumni Development Fund. For the first time in its brief history, the Fund will be represented in each graduating class by a member of that class—a class agent. The plan was initiated in October.

Some of you will hear from your class agent this year. All of you will hear from them next year as the Development Fund steps up its appeal to each alumnus to make some contribution to the needs of O.U. through an annual giving program. Class agents already selected include:

courage comes perseverance, which is the ability to stick with a discouraging proposition when you are sorely tempted to pull up stakes and leave it.
"Applying this to my own life, I think it must have started with my mother who taught me to think right, and to work hard.
Then my wife gave the incentive to teach fair play and team work to the boys whom I coached in football.
"Opportunity comes next and for that I'm deeply indebted to the new state of Oklahoma and the opportunity it offered.
I lived in southern Kansas, just a few miles from the border of the territory of Oklaahoma, so I could see for myself what a magnificent opportunity it afforded. It was my good fortune to come here at exactly the right time, when Oklahoma was just
' a-horning.'
"... speaking of my own period here at Oklahoma, I can only say that while it was lots of work, it was also lots of fun.”

ident and the professors in the Philosophy Department. Some of the complaints were discounted but many were lodged by students who could not be ignored. Most of the complaints dealt with the same issue—
the irrelevance of material discussed by Dr.
Eaton to the subject material of the courses
he taught.
After much soul-searching, the faculty of the Department of Philosophy recom-manded unanimously last year that he be dismissed from the faculty. No immediate action was taken except to let Dr. Eaton know he was standing on thin ice—that he was undergoing a critical evaluation period.
At the end of the year, a committee of
