Calendar Before Congress

A resolution proposing that the Perpetual Calendar Plan of Lt. Willard E. Edwards, 29eng, Pearl Harbor, be studied and presented at peace conferences after the war is now up for consideration in the Senate Committee on Foreign Affairs.

The resolution, entitled House Concurrent Resolution 39, entered the Congressional Record September 17, 1943.

Introduction of the resolution into Congress climaxed years of promotional work for Lieutenant Edwards, who now has the support of educational and other leaders all over the country for the Edwards Perpetual Calendar.

The Edwards Perpetual Calendar is a simple plan for calendar reform which would not be a radical change from the present system, but still would have a great many advantages, such as standardizing the length of each year and making the months fall into a regular pattern of 30, 30 and 31 days each year.

Persons interested in securing approval of the Edwards Calendar plan for the use of the U.S. Congress should write the House Committee on Foreign Affairs asking the favorable support of the members for House Concurrent Resolution 39, a similar resolution already passed by the legislature of Hawaii.
