IF YOU WANT to KNOW the World's LITERATURE

You Must Read Books Abroad!

BOOKS ABROAD is a quarterly published by the University of Oklahoma Press in the months of January, April, July and October. Edited by Dr. Roy Temple House, the magazine reviews the literature of all foreign-language speaking countries, except those of the Far East.

Distinguished scholars from many American and European universities contribute to the magazine, which circulates in thirty-three foreign countries.

Henry Goddard Leach, editor of The Forum, Joseph Wood Krutch, biographer of Edgar Allen Poe, and hundreds of celebrated writers and editors, have praised this unique magazine venture, sponsored by the university.

By reading Books Abroad you can keep abreast of Europe's growing literature. For instance, the January number contains articles on George Santayana seen through German eyes, on the literary reviews of Mexico, on the principal writers of Switzerland, and on the Unknown Soldier in German fiction. In addition, there are reviews of leading French, Italian, Spanish and German books.

Books Abroad is sent free to all interested in European literature. Ask to be placed on its circulation list by writing
