The Complete Plan of the University of Oklahoma Campus

This map of the University of Oklahoma campus as it is and as it will be when the building program has been completed, was drawn by Walter W. Kraft, superintendent of utilities of the university, and is here published for the first time.

All buildings already erected are indicated in outline; while shading indicates buildings projected.

Buildings devoted principally to research will be erected in the main on the new south oval, which is fronted by the new library.

Buildings asked of the state legislature for the next biennium are those of biological sciences, journalism, physics, business administration, and home economics. A special request will be made for a petroleum engineering building. An addition is sought also for the geology building, inadequate for its purpose almost as soon as it was erected.

A great deal of paving has yet to be done on the campus, and this is indicated on the map by the shaded portions of streets.
