YR YEAR BY YEAR

1908

Finis E. McReynolds, 1908, has been appointed Latin teacher at Norman High School.

1910

Jessie D. Newby, 1910, member of the faculty at Central State Teachers college, is on sabbatical leave this year and is working for a Ph.D. degree at the University of Iowa, Iowa City.

1915

E. Bruce Givens, 1915, employee in the Norman postoffice, was elected president of the clerks division at the Oklahoma convention of the National Association of Post Office Clerks and Letter Carriers September 7 in Enid. Dr. Leroy Long, Jr., 1915, made a month's tour of Europe during the summer in company with 40 surgeons from this section of the country, and returned with a conviction that America is far ahead of Europe in surgery. The Daily Oklahoman quoted him as saying:

"Before the war, young American doctors thought only of going to Europe to study. Paris, Berlin or Vienna. Now that is all changed, and American physicians want to come to America. Many of their leading doctors have received the greater part of their training in the United States. America is definitely the leader in surgery.

"Norway and Sweden I found to be the most interesting countries of the entire tour, and the ones showing the greatest improvement in and facilities for medical work. They are in excellent shape because they capitalize on the fact that they were not so closely drawn into the World war."

"While there is little actual poverty in either of these countries, their system of socialized medicine, which being advocated on every hand in the United States, is far from satisfactory. Each person pays a dollar a year for all the medical attention he needs, but the attention is by no means adequate."

"The medical profession is unpaid, and is frowned upon by parents whose children wish to enter it. The high regard which characterizes the American attitude for the profession is absent in most European countries."

1917

Bennett Griffin, 1917, now an aviation expert with the bureau of air commerce, has been experimenting recently with a new 225-mile-an-hour plane which the government is using to test blind flying apparatus. Griffin has been in charge of the government's work on blind landing for more than a year. The new plane is equipped with recently designed equipment for landing when the ground is completely obscured by fog.

1918

B. A. Ames, 1918, 1919, now an Oklahoma City attorney, notified federal authorities immediately when he received a penciled note demanding $2,000 from him under threat of death. Four G-Men watched as Ames, at their direction, drove by a vacant lot and tossed out a dummy package. About 51 minutes later a youth who appeared at the lot and picked up the package was arrested. Prompt co-operation with the authorities had thwarted an extinction attempt.

Sadie Shackleford, 1918, teacher in Webster Junior high school at Oklahoma City, made a 2,000-mile trip to Union of South Africa, Rhodesia and Portuguese East Africa last summer. She reported that some of the unusual sights she saw were fish with legs, fish with eves, three-cornered fish, a man who had 57 brothers and sisters, brown and yellow diamonds, women from India wearing jewels in the sides of their noses like ear screws, and the "bluest sky in the world."

Miss Edna Mullins, teacher of English and journalism in Norman high school, has resigned to accept a position in the English department at Northwestern State Teachers college, Weatherford.

1921

Herman Latturett, 1921, was appointed chairman of the fifth congressional membership drive of the state Young Republican organization. He is Republican chairman in Cleveland county. Claude Weaver, Jr., 1921, has been appointed chief attorney for the state highway commission to handle right of way litigation. He succeeds L. V. Orton.

1922

Dorrance D. Rodemer, 22, publisher of the E' Free Times, is president of a new corporation

Each newspaper remains separate and independent editorially, the announcement of the new arrangement stated. The change was made “because of a determination to maintain and improve high standards in newspaper service to readers and advertisers at reasonable rates.”

1923

Lynn Riggs, '23ex, nationally known writer and dramatist, is leading a very attractive life in Santa Fe, New Mexico, according to Frank Dennis, staff member of the Daily Oklahoman, who interviewed Riggs recently at Santa Fe.

“Riggs is 36 years old, has no office hours, quite work when he wants to, lies in the sun or shade as he prefers and when he prefers, lives alternately in Hollywood, Santa Fe, and New York as the season and his state of mind dictate, and otherwise has an enviable existence,” Dennis wrote.

The reporter adds that the catch in the story is that Riggs won the right to this pleasant existence by years of the hardest kind of work, and that he still working hard.

Riggs is writing a new play, entitled “World Elsewhere,” which is about Americans in Mexico. If all goes smoothly, he expects to see the play produced as an army play early in 1923. Or he might return to Hollywood to do scenario work for a time.

He is one of the few writers in the country who has achieved success in both play writing and screen writing. Avoiding a contract with his is still working hard.

Resigning as business manager of Oklahoma Transcript, H. A. Wilson, has accepted a position as teacher of English and journalism in Norman high school.

1928

Mrs. C. M. Smith, '28as, is Republican nominee for county superintendent in Cleveland County.

J. Curtis Hayes, '28ex, is attracting attention for his efficient management of the municipal airport at Shawnee. Improvements to the airport are being planned, including erection of an administration building and enlarging the field.

Continuing an interest in dramatics which he developed while in school, Mr. Walter Graafland, '28ex, has been elected president of the Tiger Club at Oklahoma City. Graafland, who is a practicing attorney in Oklahoma City, announced plans for employing a permanent director and putting on performances of professional caliber.

Ennik Lewis, '28as, who started learning about archery while a student in the University, has won an outstanding reputation in the southwest for her accuracy with bow and arrow. She placed first in an archery tournament held at Texarkana in May. She was one of more than 300 entrants.

Loren Brown, '28as, has been granted leave of absence from his duties on the history faculty at the University, in order to complete residence work on a doctor’s degree at the University of Chicago.

Thelma Walker, '28ex, who formerly taught in Newton, Georgia, is teaching at Perkins, Okla., this year.

Dr. H. T. Baugh, '28as, of the University, has been appointed chairman of the national committee on juvenile welfare of the Junior Chamber of Commerce.

Betty Kirk, '28as, former assistant editor of the University Press, is now working in Mexico City as assistant to a newspaper and magazine correspondent.

Lena E. Lawson, '29as, was appointed to direct a new course in cooperative salesmanship in Central High school, Oklahoma City.

R. W. Harris, '29as, of the University library department, has been elected president of the Baptist Men’s Dinner club of Norman.

R. W. Harris, '29as, of the University paleontology department, has been elected president of the Baptist Men’s Dinner club of Norman.

The School of Petroleum Engineering, University of Oklahoma, is known throughout the world for the high type of educational and research work that is being done here. The school has been successful in the past because the faculty have been uniting in their work, the alumni and other men of the industry have co-operated to the fullest extent, and the student body is made up of men whose primary purpose is to obtain an education.

If advancements are to be made and the reputation of the School of Petroleum Engineering is to be maintained, a suitable building must be provided.

Many of the schools of the North and East, such as the Universities of Illinois, Wisconsin, Minnesota and Michigan, have realized the importance of petroleum engineering education and have adopted courses of a specialized nature which are Petroleum engineering courses at the University of Wisconsin are taught in this new $575,000 Mechanical Engineering building.
