Model Designer

A Unique Showing. In a recent New York fashion show, "Diamonds U. S. A.,” a striking young Dallas woman modeled some of the individualistic designs of the Southwest. The modeling by an attractive young woman was not unusual, but the fact the model also designed the jewelry is another story.

Norma Lands, '43fa, is one of the few women designers in the states who works with diamonds and precious jewels. She has been a designer for Linz Brothers, Dallas, since 1944. Her job requires talent and resourcefulness. Mrs. Lands is seldom stumped. She has designed exact miniatures of several horses for a man who raised the racers; a mallard duck for a sportsman and a barrette in platinum and diamonds for a woman who wanted it for her French poodle.

Majoring in fashion-design illustrations at the University, she was first hired to do sketches for the jewelry designers. Before she realized it, she had slipped easily and naturally into the job of designing, herself.

Two Are Presidents

Football Library...

Library for freshman and sophomores. The new north end addition of the stadium was designed to improve library services to the younger students and also planned to free the general library for other use.

The tables in the unique library vary in size and shape. Colorful occasional chairs and lounges make the studying atmosphere a more pleasant one. The room itself has light-colored tile floor, acoustical tile ceiling, birch panelling and florescent lights. Cross-ventilation is also provided and there is a separate lobby entrance to the library.

Books for the undergraduate library will be obtained by transfer from the general library. Around 6,000 volumes of reserves, 2,500 volumes of general readings and 200 volumes of references books will be transferred. About 4,000 books will be purchased for the new library. The library hopes to obtain a collection of sound recordings also.
