Let Homecoming Be Realistic This Year

When Alumni come to Norman this year they won't have to rush away right after the game in order to make reservations for the night.

They may linger 'round awhile, visit old friends and old haunts and make HOMECOMING realistic in every sense of the word.

SPEND THE NIGHT AT THE MODERN

University Hotel
Norman, Okla.
Ferguson has been granted a year's leave of absence to execute this work.

1908

“I Recall”

The editor is pleased to announce a series of articles, the first to be in the December issue of The Sooner Magazine, in which six veteran members of the university teaching staff recount their reminiscences of the early days of the University of Oklahoma.

Ed Mills, a special writer for the Oklahoma News, is writing the series. You will enjoy them, for when complete, the series will be truly a history of the university. The first article is an interview with Dr. J. S. Buchanan, vice-president of the university, and beloved by all Soonerland. Each article will be well illustrated with many rare pictures of the early day campus.

This is but one of the interesting articles in store for the December issue. In addition to these, there will be the regular departments, with tribute being paid to noted Sooners in the “Hats Off to” page. News of the breadwinners will be told in the “Here and There” department, while the “As We Were Saying” department will bring the most important happenings of the campus to you, wherever you are.

Last Call!

You will not be receiving an “S. O. S.” call every month or so under the new regime of the University of Oklahoma Association. We believe you will appreciate that. However, subscriptions are necessary to the life of this magazine. Why not at this moment write a check for $3 (or $5 a quarter until you have paid $60, if you want a life subscription) for The Sooner Magazine?
