Soonerland Briefs

D. D. M. C. was in the headlines again in November when John Fortson, Oklahoma Daily editor, '34as, Tecumseh, said editorially that an alumnus of the secret organization had told him two students were lectured since the famous Bill Stephens case of last winter. After a day's ride in headlines, the excitement died down when the alumnus failed to produce evidence of the existence and campus members of D. D. M. C. stated positively that the group was disbanded since its members were suspended from school and then reinstated last December.

Dainty Ann Lennington, '34as, Muncie, Indiana, and Mary Hatt Hively, '34as, Muskogee, were in a hospital in Oklahoma City for several weeks following an automobile accident Homecoming day. They were in a car driven by Warren W. Westfall, '36ex, Lawton, the night before the Homecoming game when the accident occurred in Oklahoma City. Wavelton was not seriously injured.

E. Robert Schmitz, French pianist, was to play a recital November 23 on the University campus.

A dance drama will be given December 18 at the University auditorium by Orchesics, dance organization, under the direction of Miss Helen Gregory, physical education instructor. An interpretation of "The Juggler of Notre Dame" will be offered by the group in the Christmas program.

The low down on the Urschel kidnapping trial was given the campus on two different occasions. Herbert K. "Slick" Hyde, '20ex, United States district attorney, gave the inside story to law students and Lee Hills, Oklahoma News reporter, told the story to journalism students from the newspaper angle.

A. J. "Dad" Elliott, colorful international boys worker for the past twenty-five years, was a campus visitor late in October.

The Sooner League of Young Democrats has brought three well-known speakers to the campus during the past month. They were E. W. Marland, Ponca City, O. M. Mosier, Oklahoma City manager, and Tom Anglin, speaker of the state house of representatives.

Students of the business college almost made a study of the innermost secrets of the nictie slot machine recently. The Oklahoma Daily announced that a business college class would take apart one of the machines which was confiscated by county officers. The proposed study was brought to an abrupt halt when Dean Arthur B. Adams announced, "If any faculty members are unable to find satisfactory legitimate problems to discuss before classes it will be necessary to make a change in the personnel of the faculty of the college of business administration."

Virginia Lee, '37as, a straight-A student of Bartlesville high school and freshman queen, added another honor to her list of accomplishments. She won second place in the posture contest held during health week.

A charge that fraternity leaders were not seriously attempting to revise rush rules as they were asked by President W. B. Bizzell was made editorially by the Oklahoma Daily. The editorial commented: "They are setting out to dupe President Bizzell and the board of regents. They want to change rush rules just enough to please officials without making any serious alterations."

The interfraternity council has been asked to adopt a new plan for rush.

Professor Hoople, a faculty Walter Winchell, returned to the columns of the Oklahoma Daily with a weekly column of comments on campus activities, especially among the faculty.

Plans to have Duke Ellington, famed negro band leader, play a concert at the University fell through when the sponsoring men's council could not obtain faculty sanction for the program. The great Duke was unable to play on the campus any Friday or Saturday night and University regulations prevented his playing on week nights.

Merle Coleman, '37as, brawny Sigma Alpha Epsilon pledge of Tulsa, won the annual battle-royal held at the interfraternity council mixer.

John Gould Fletcher, world known poet, spoke on "Tradition and Experiment in Contemporary Literature" at the University in November. The noted Kansan, a leader in the imagist school of verse, said there was no tradition in contemporary literature and that most of the experiment was concerned with form.

Carl B. Stone, '34fa, Sand Springs, is directing the Pauls Valley Community Band while he is attending his final year... at the University. He drives to Pauls Valley weekly for band practice.

Brown "Mutt" Miller, '36as, Wewoka, reserve end on the Sooner football team during the past season, has a name Coach Lewie Hardage can't get used to. The tribal name of the little Creek-Seminole Indian is Katcha-Le-Ka-Ta-He. Hardage just calls him Mutt.

Alpha Chi Omega held a district convention at the University November 17, 18 and 19. Members of the national sorority from Kansas, Missouri and Texas chapters attended the meeting.

A pair of Sooner track stars of past years ran first and third in a triangular meet November 11 at Stillwater. Glen Dawson, '32as, won the race over the five-mile course and Harold Keith, '28as, ran third. The Sooner varsity won the team competition, defeating Oklahoma Aggies and Edmond Teachers.

President Bizzell spoke on "Tendencies Toward Centralization in Education" at the annual meeting of the National Association of State Universities in November at Chicago. He discussed the plan of the "Greater University of Oklahoma" as an example of centralization in education.

A chance to see the World's Fair fun dancer in motion pictures was denied University students in November when the mayor of Norman and ministers protested against the showing at the Sooner theater after the film already had been booked. The "protection of student morals" was one of the reasons for stopping the showing.

May Gets Appointment

The new assistant municipal counselor of Oklahoma City is Ralph J. May, '31law, who was appointed by City Manager Orval Mosier to fill the vacancy left through the resignation of Robert P. Hill, '29law.

May will handle county court appeals from the city police court. More than six hundred piled up during the interim of Hill's resignation and May's appointment.

The Daily Oklahoman reported the appointment:

"May said his appointment 'hardly is an elevation, in one sense.' He revealed that in 1925, while a student at Central high school here, he was police judge for a day and that in 1926 he served as mayor for one day."

May is remembered on the campus as student council dance manager for the athletic association the year it was in charge of dances. He and his wife, Dorothy Champlin May, '32as, are living at 1133 Northwest Thirty-eighth Street in Oklahoma City.

Nuhfers to Pittsburgh

The talented Nuhfer family, Leo, '31 pet eng, and Olive, '32as, has moved to Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania, where he will be an instructor of petroleum engineering at the University of Pittsburgh.

He was named on the faculty by H. C. George who resigned last summer as director of the University school of petroleum engineering to accept a similar position at Pittsburgh.

Mrs. Nuhfer was one of the most talented artists ever graduated from the University art school. Last year, she painted a mural in the St. John's Episcopal church in Norman. Other of her mural works are in University buildings.

Making History

Alumni are being asked to send accounts of interesting experiences they have had in connection with the University to Wirt Peters, in care of WNAD, University radio station at Norman.

Peters, who is president of Phi Alpha Delta, law fraternity, is in charge of a series of broadcasts at 7:45 o'clock Thursday nights over WNAD. The broadcasts are known as "The Portrait Hour" and consist of biographical sketches and reminiscences of members of the faculty who have been at the University for twenty years or longer.

The material which is being put on the air and any contributions sent in by alumni are expected to be incorporated into a history of the University which is planned for publication as a part of the Golden Anniversary celebration.

Safety in Numbers

New fame has come to Lynn Riggs, '23ex, but this time it was not a successful Broadway play nor a movie scenario that did it.

Lynn was one of eight young men who escorted Bette Davis, film beauty, to a Hollywood premiere. Both Bette and the octet of admirers seemed to like it and the Los Angeles newspapers gave the party of first-nighters a big hand.

Joseph Bird in New York

Dr. Joseph W. Bird, '27M.A., is one of the juvenile delinquency experts who addressed school teachers of New York City at a special school held at the City Police Academy this fall, according to the New York Sun.

Dr. Bird spoke on "Crime Cost and Expenditures" in October and will summarize the five-months course in January for the 450 school teachers enrolled.

He is affiliated with the College of the City of New York where he engaged in graduate work after he completed his study at the University.

Letter from Venezuela

Jose A. Delgado, '33eng, is now government petroleum inspector at "El Cubo," Estado Zulia, Venezuela. He came to the University in the fall of 1930 and studied three years in residence for his degree in petroleum engineering.

In an open letter to his classmates and friends, Delgado writes from Venezuela:

"I am certainly missing terribly my good days at the University. The friendship, hospitality and kind disposition toward me from the people of Oklahoma made me out of my personality a blind and unconditional follower of such a community. If there is something that I never would forget it is the fact of being myself one of the '33 O. U. graduates with the greatest possible happiness a graduate could have for his school. Count me always a good Sooner."

Lloyd Truman Praised

A long account of an address made recently by Lloyd W. Truman, '23as, in Bridgeport, Connecticut was carried in the daily Bridgeport paper.

It praised Truman's knowledge of recurrent and estimated at about $1,000 should go to the University loan fund, according to Richard Pendleton, '26aw, Cleveland county judge, who probated the will. The American First Trust company of Oklahoma City was made executor of the estate under terms of the will.

Cotton On the Air

One of the latest and most popular singers on the air is Maurice Cotton, '33fa, whose tenor voice was heard for two years in the Varsity shoppe just off the campus at meal times.

With his name changed to Larry Cotton and a new wave in his hair, Cotton has been singing from station KOA in Denver. During his last year at the University, Cotton sang one of the leads in the operatic presentation, "Faust." He also sang with the Booster orchestra on the campus.

Meacham Heads Dads Club

George Meacham, '20law, Clinton attorney, was elected president of the University Dads' association at its annual meeting October 21 in Norman. More than three hundred dads of University students attended the session.

Other officers selected were Hal Mul-
