EDITORIAL ON A. B. DAVIS AND J. F. BROWN

Wewoka, I. T.,

There is a woman who wields a wonderful influence with the Seminole tribe who is assisting the government in the work of enrolling Seminole babies here. She is Mrs. A. B. Davis, a sister of John Brown, who was recently elected governor, Her father was a Scotchman and her mother a full blood Seminole. She is thoroughly familiar not only with the people of her tribe, but with all their business affairs. Last fall there was an expidition to Mexico, a party of leading Seminoles going to look over the country to which a large number of Indians proposed to migrate. Mrs. Davis was a member of the party. Her judgment was considered of almost the same consequence as that of Hulputta Micco, the
