Kola:

Our book is finished. I have sent you a copy of it by mail. I hope you will like it. The printer did a good job I think, and made a good looking book. He did not have the money to put in all the pictures you drew for me, but everything else is there. I think it is a finer looking book than the one about your uncle, Sitting Bull. It makes me happy to have it, and to send it to you.

I promised you four copies of this book. I am sending you one now, and I have asked the printer to send you the other three right away. If you don't get them before a month goes by, let me know.

My friend, my heart is good towards you. We are well and happy, and send you and your family our very best wishes for long life and happiness. Please let me know when you get the book, and how you like it. I am your friend.

Yours cordially
