

named Mr. Langhlin (I am not sure of that spelling) has written a book about the Indians of that period which, I am told, is very trustworthy. He had long experience with them, had their confidence; and, what was an honest, reliable man - which was not always the case with those so called Indian Agents, Interpreters, Squaw-men, &c. who have been so apt in telling all about that period. Major Genl.
H. L. Scott, probably the best living Indian Sign-Talker, is perhaps well informed through his interviews with Swaming Indians about Sitting Bull;
