

get back to any town along the Milwaukee.
Last winter, for instance, all traffic in the country was suspended for the whole winter on country roads. In the white man's country there are fairly decent roads everywhere but there are no worked or graded roads in the Indian country and no ~~roads~~ bridges across the gulches and streams. The Indian does little travel, ing in the winter except when out looking for jack rabbits. In the summer season when there is a feast or a fair they will all be found in attendance - unless there is a conflict in dates, and he would attend both pow wows if he could.

I imagine I have overlooked some of your questions.

With all good wishes,

I am, very truly yours,

Lewis F. Crawford
