Dear Sir,

Answering yours of July 21 concerning Sitting Bull, I know nothing of the man personally. The chief skirmish we had on that trip (1866) was in vicinity of the Custer battle field. Being a Civil War veteran and having had three years of fighting during that war I did not think much of the Indian tactics at that time. We lost one man and how many of ^{the Indians} those were put out I do not know. Neither do I know whether Sitting Bull was in command or not as it was ten years before the Custer massacre, and he was not so famous at that time

The account of this trip has been published several times but I have no copy at present nor do I know where I can find one.

Very truly yours,

J. C. Cooper
