January 14, 1929.

Major George P. Ahern, The Woodley, Washington, D. C.

Dear Major Ahern:

I am afraid you will think my lettem tread on each others' heels for I am writing you again before Ichers had time to get your reply to my last. The fact is that unforeseen circumstances will make it impossible for me to visit Mashington this month and so I shall be compelled to miss the annual dinner of the Order of Indian Wars to which I looked forward with such pleasure. However, I shall hope to see you in the Shring when I come to Washington for research. Just now I am busily engaged with one of my Dakota informatts whom I have invited down here.

Cordially yours,

W. S. CAMPBELL.