

fired the battle started, guns were fired fast there was yelling and crying and such a confusion some of the police took refuge in S B's cabin to protect themselves from the infuriated hostiles

The smoke of gun fire was so dense one could not see. with two other police Hakute mani says they stood pressed close to the wall as they could not get in the cabin, they saw the bodies as they lay some of them not quite dead Some of the police ran away into the brush to save themselves chased by the hostiles, some of the hostiles were storming the cabin. It was getting gray dawn by this time, every police would have been killed, but the soldiers had made their arrival and stood on the bluff above the house, they also fired down on the cabin with a cannon The hostiles with drew when the soldiers made their appearance. The women had struck camp at the first sound of guns were fleeing out for the badlands