Dear Mr. Campbell:-

I have yours of the 31st regarding the Barry photos. I told you the old man was regular old fire-eater--but I see you discovered it in advance! Look out for him! He will sue anybody who uses his photos. I guess he is getting old and childish. While I don't suppose there is any law which can prevent a man COPYING his photos, of course they are protected by copyright from USE as illustrations in books or magazines, without his permission--which I doubt he would give!

The Cody-S.B. photos is in the new Buffalo Bill book--as you state.

Of course I would not care to have Barry know I sent you the copy of the S.B. photo--which I trust you have rec'd by now. If ~~xxxx~~ not, please advise. I had lost your letter and couldn't remember your name, so wrote your faculty to inquire which one it was that wanted the photo.

Standing Bear will reply to letters I am sure, as he is well educated--far better than a heap of white men. He can make as good an address in a drawing room or a crowded theater as any white orator. He talks before many schools and womens' clubs here.

Sincerely yours,

E. A. Brininstool
