position as author, historian, and English scholar to the ranks of a genuine book peddler and begin to distribute your books. I have adopted such tactics to that extent that actually 800 books have passed through my hands since September. Doubtless, I have thus opened myself to all of the accusations of our present profit system. In this case I would answer by saying that there is in reality very little profit in my book at best.

With many good wishes for the new year, I am

Sincerely yours,
