The Indians of this agency occupy what is said to be the best agricultural portion of the Great Sioux Reservation, and in seasons such as the present, when there is sufficient moisture, barley, oats, peas, and wheat, together with corn