Dear Mr. Campbell:

I notice you are contributing a series of articles to Adventure Magazine on the subject of Sitting Bull. I have read the first installment and congratulate you on undertaking the story.

I enclose two clippings which will interest you. The Forum published my comment, as written, save two words which they deleted. I have supplied the two words in pencil - for your information.

If you feel the urge to offer something in connection with the Williams article please do not hold back too strenuously. Considering that you are engaged in special study of the life and career of the man under consideration, anything you may have to say will, I am sure, be welcomed by The Forum. And it will serve to correct injustice.

Yours very truly,

P. E. Byrne
