

you like it or not." SB said, "You are the man who mistreated my niece and you will be the last man I will listen to." I think this was after Crow Foot's remarks. SB saw that his followers were becoming uneasy and were beginning to talk so he decided not to go.

One thing very noticeable during McLaughlin's time was that the highest office of police forces, captain of police, was always held by some member of Yanctonai band. The captain of the police force was not here (Crazy Walking).

There was a follower of SB's named Loud-Voiced Bear (Also called Loud Bear) but I never heard of Loud Voiced Hawk. The former was a camp crier. There was another Indian named Noisy Hawk. He was another follower of SB.

All the police wore white mufflers.

90 Catch the Bear fired the firstshot. Bull Head - his own name is Bears Afraid of Him. Officially he goes by the first name but his own name among the Indians is the latter. Bullhead was on the side of SB and Red Tomahawk behind. Red Tomahawk to this day is a proud man and likes to show off.

Little Soldier is a nice agreeable sort of man. Different from Red Tomahawk.

90 The policemen were not so very young. They were men of an average age of 45 to 50. Some of them were about the same age as SB. Some of them had fought with ~~them~~ him. If McLaughlin had been half way decent with SB he would have favored him with a judge of the Indian court like he did Gall and the other chiefs on account of his age and position.

There was a great deal of jealousy among the chiefs. Everybody wanted to stand in with the officials. McLaughlin must have listened to some of the talks of the chiefs.

Circling Hawk was at the arrest of SB and was one of the chief ones.
