

2--Indian Jokes

4. A white man drove his car to an Indian camp where the Indians were having a dance and celebration. Seeing an Indian policeman on duty, he asked, "Will it be safe to park my car here? I don't want anyone to steal it."

The policeman looked around in all directions and said, "Yes, park it here, I don't see any white men around."

5. One day in a Cheyenne camp, a white man was complaining. "I don't know what's come over these young Indians. The old-time Indians were always honest and told the truth. I never knew one of them to lie or steal anything."

The young Indian overheard this talk and spoke up, "Yes, we are getting civilized."