Dear professor: —

at last I am able to answer your letter of May 1.

I wrote to the Am. Mus. Nat. Hist.
in New York for literature on the Blackfoot.

I received the other day the following monographs

1. Societies and Dance Associations of the B.L. etc
2. Ceremonial bundles " "
3. Mythology " "
4. Social Life " "
5. Material Culture " "

All of these are by Clark Wissler. In the last <sup>illustrated</sup> monograph <sup>(No. 5 above)</sup> there is a rather detailed description of a Blackfoot tipi, answering practically all the questions you mention in your letter (size, pegs & pins, poles etc. etc) including description of the pole foundation and comparison with that of other tribes. There are also many photos of tipis in all stages of erection, also interior views.
