P. S: A few notes on Ind. poetry & literature (may interest you)

- 1) "The Poetry of the Am. Indian" by H. B. Alexander
- in "The Nation", Saturday Dec. 13, 1919 p. 757
- 2) "The Indian as Poet" by Louis Untermeyer
- in "The Dial", p 240 Vol. LXVI No 785
- 3) "Americanizations" by H. B. Alexander.

Interesting remarks on Maize & the Cornucopia, an interesting Quiché myth & the relation of Indian culture to modern American culture etc.

Very much worth reading. In "The Nation", Sept. 13, 1919. p. 367

4) A bibliographic notice of "Indian Notes & Monographs" of the Museum of the Am. Indian see "Nation", Jan. 17, '20. p. 92.

5) "Primitive Society" by R. H. Lewis

Asst. Curator of Anthropology, Am. Mus. Nat. Hist. N. Y.

which may have interesting references to our Indians.

I have not read it. It will probably help to understand the peculiar primitive mentality also of our Indians.
