

made a second visit.

When the reservations were fenced, the Indian police were charged with the duty of preventing cowmen from cutting the wire to drive their cattle in and this sometimes resulted in serious conflict.