

As soon as the Governor appeared, the company was brought to attention. Orders were then given for the following evolutions: "Carry arms! Rear open order! About face! Load! Aim! Fire! Recover arms! About face! Close order! Present arms!" These orders were given in English, and the evolutions followed the old Upton tactics. Having fired the salute, and with the company standing at "present," I saluted the Governor, and delivered the company of Apache Indian police into the service of the Territory of Arizona.'

John Clum returned immediately to San Carlos, and settled down to a happy family life--with his bride, and his forty-five hundred self-governing Apaches.
