Henry was the child of Lewis Ross or De-de-tau-de Loo-ye. born to him by Mrs. Hilderbrand on the west side of the river near the Lacy Hawkins place--educated in Philadelphia, Penn. John Ross for 40 years chief of the Cherokees was his uncle-- John and Lewis Ross were two of the best men the Nation ever had in its time--brothers they were, No man or woman or child ever lingered at the door of either hungry or in need or suffering--they received help and shelter without question--

Lewis Ross especially was the most able of the two, as he owned about 300 slaves, and extensive properties otherwise, & the most palatial home the Cherokee Nation ever had for one of its citizens--original cost, $50,000. in gold--

John Ross owned about 100 slaves, and a fine home, and was there was extended to all the very pinnacle of hospitality--
