

Not long ago a group of our business men organized for concerted action in the upbuilding of our city. They brought manufactures on a large scale granting to them magnificent donations. Their ingenuity supplied the funds without adding a penny to the city's debt or drawing upon their own private resources but they created a condition that made it possible for every man with economy and industry to secure a home of his own in this town.

This was genuine philanthropy and heroic achievement.

Thousands availed themselves of this golden opportunity the city grew with marvelous rapidity and all profited in high degree.
