

AICA HOSTS RECEPTION & READING
FOR AMBASSADORS FROM
"MEDICINE PATHWAYS FOR THE FUTURE"

AUGUST 6, 1993
7:00 PM

AICA is honored to host a community reception for the 32 American Indian ambassadors from 22 different tribes and 27 different states. They are participants in a conference being held at UC Berkeley entitled "Medicine Pathways for the Future." The program, designed to foster leadership among the native community, was sponsored by Americans for Indian Opportunity and funded by W.K. Kellogg Foundation.

We are also honored to present Pathways participant Elizabeth Woody, a published Native American poet and writer, who will read her work during this reception.

The community is welcome to attend.
