Dear Millilani:

Several weeks ago I wrote to Janet Reno to remind her of her commitment to conduct a listening session with Native people. I have no reason to believe she has changed her mind about this session. She may be waiting for Gerald Torres, the attorney in charge of Indian affairs to be confirmed by the Senate.

I will write a follow-up note today and include your suggestions. As soon as I hear something from her I will get back with you.

I hope all is well with you. I have been gone for a little over three weeks so I must apologize for my lateness in replying to your note.

Warm personal regards,

Wilma P. Mankiller
